

CROSSINGS: Caring for Our Own at Death

A Workshop on Home Funeral Care and Green Burial Options

Crossings: Caring for Our Own at Death is dedicated to renewing simplicity and sanctity to death care, and teaching those who wish to know, that home funeral care is completely legal and neither dangerous nor difficult. Death is inevitable and, like birth, is a passage to be honored. There is a movement nationwide to support people in coming to terms with the death of a loved one and finding meaningful ways to honor the person and the community. In many ways, it is a return to an age-old tradition when death care was a family and community event.

The workshop is led by Crossings' founder, Elizabeth Knox.

This Crossings workshop will provide information and instruction on:

- How a home vigil can bring meaning, dignity, and healing at the time of a loved one's passing
- Legal rights and responsibilities at the time of death
- How to wash, prepare, and "lay out" the body for up to a 3-day vigil at home
- How to work with a funeral director to get only the services you need
- How to transport the body to a gravesite or crematorium
- "Green" burial options
- Integrating home funeral care with your religious or spiritual beliefs
